

TEAMS TO PLAY FOR $50 PURSE

Merrill Bowlers and Morgan's Stars To Meet In Nine Game Contest

Arrangements are now being made for a bowling contest between the Morgan Stars, of this city, and Smiling & Hesterman's team of Merrill.

On Monday the Merrill club issued a challenge to the Stars for a series of games for a purse of fifty dollars. Capt. Morgan lost no time in responding to the challenge, stating that the Stars would be willing to accommodate the Lincoln county sports at any time agreeable. He also requested that the contest be held under the following conditions: Total number of pins to count in a series of nine games. First three games to be bowled in this city, next three in Merrill, and the team scoring the largest number of pins in the six games to have the final series.

It is probable that the first games will be played at the Anderson alleys next Sunday evening. Much interest is centered in the contest among the bowling fans of this city. Numerous small bets are being offered on the Stars.

Mr. Morgan declares that defeat is impossible. He relishes the opportunity to make good his claim of having the best amateur bowling club in northern Wisconsin.

HELD FOR FORGERY

Geo. Ladusire Gets In Serious Trouble At Wausau

Geo. Ladusire, who claims this city as his home, is in jail at Wausau, awaiting trial before circuit court on the charge of forgery. He is alleged to have raised a time check on the Brooks & Ross Lbr. Co., of Schofield.

The Wausau Pilot of Tuesday has the following account of the case: "Geo. Ladusire was arrested Saturday, on complaint of Geo. Vehlou, bookkeeper for the Brooks & Ross Lumber Co. The young man had been employed by the company and quit Friday and was given a time slip for two and one-half days' work. Needing money he got busy with a pencil and raised the check to twelve and one-half days. He presented the slip at the company's office and it was cashed. A little later the forgery was discovered and arrest followed. Ladusire admitted his guilt to the officers. He was bound over for trial in circuit court. He says his home is in Rhinelander. He is about twenty years years old, and evidently not very well drilled in the school of experience."

ATTENDS THREE MEETINGS

B. Mack Dresden Has Busy Week In Capital City

B. Mack Dresden, principal of the Oneida County Training School, left Tuesday for Madison. While there he will attend a gathering of principals of county training schools, the convention of county school superintendents and the meeting of the board of visitors of the Superior Normal school. He was lately appointed a member of the latter body. In order to gain pointers for use of the agricultural classes of the training school, Mr. Dresden intends to spend one day in the agricultural department of Wisconsin University.

URGE CLOSING OF THE POSTOFFICE

Rhinelanders Clergymen Declare Mail Carriers Should Have Sunday Rest

The national movement on foot which is known as the Lord's Rest Day, and that has as its object the giving of one day of rest out of seven for post office employees, has reached Rhinelander.

The pastors of some of the city churches broached the subject to their parishioners last Sunday. They heartily endorsed this movement and suggested that a petition signed by the postoffice patrons requesting that the distribution of mail at the carriers' windows on Sundays be suspended, be sent to the Postmaster General.

The closing of the windows would allow the carriers to attend church or spend the time in some other manner that would bring relaxation and recuperation to both mind and body. The principle of a Sunday cessation from labor is one which should be universally applied to all classes of labor wherever possible; the mail carriers have their rights in the matter the same as any other class of workmen.

RETURNS FROM FRISCO

Thos. Munson is the guest of Theo. Saterstrom. The young man arrived here Saturday from California where he spent four years, most of the time in Los Angeles and San Francisco. He was employed as a dredge engineer. Mr. Munson, who takes interest in sporting events, witnessed the Jeffries-Johnson fight at Reno, last July 4th. While he likes the West he is satisfied that Wisconsin is the only country in which to live.

REV. CLARK'S NEXT ADDRESS

Interesting facts about the Socialists and the Socialistic movement which non-socialists ought to know, will be the subject of Rev. Grant Clark's address next Sunday evening at the Congregational church at 7:30. The public is cordially invited to be present. Socialists will be greatly interested in the subject for discussion.

ORPHEAN MUSICAL CLUB

Last Entertainment Course Number To-Morrow Night

The Orphean Musical Club, which appears at the Grand Opera House to-morrow evening, is the final number on the entertainment course. It is one of the strongest attractions of the winter and everywhere has been greeted by packed houses.

Read what the press says: The Orphean Musical Club, which was the attraction at the opera house on Thursday night, was far and away above many highly advertised aggregations. The club gave its program in the most pleasing manner. The numbers were rendered in the most artistic style, and the performance stamped the club as one of the best musical organizations ever seen in the city. — Titusville (Pa.) Morning Herald.

LOGGERS ARE HAPPY

Winter Proves Satisfactory For The Northern Operators

Reports from the logging camps in this part of the country state that the heavy snow falls of recent date not only insure good logging operations, but give promise of a high stage of water for the drives next spring. Millions of feet of logs that were not possible to get out last season will probably come out on the high water promised for the coming spring.

With at least six more weeks of logging operations the demand for woodsmen by northern loggers is keener than ever and it is now almost impossible to fill the orders. There are no idle men in this city, excepting those who are unfitted for work in the woods or who would rather do nothing than leave town. Wages at a good many camps have been increased during the past few weeks, owing to the difficulty of securing men and the general run is now from thirty to thirty-five dollars a month.

RESUMES HIS WORK

Louis Huebener, who was injured in an altercation with W. Shafer on January 25th, has resumed his work as driver of the Commercial Hotel bus. His wounds were not as serious as at first reported, it seems.

IS STRUCK BY A FALLING TREE

Earl Leland Is Seriously Hurt In the Woods Near Pelican Lake Friday

Earl Leland, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Leland, met with a serious accident while in the employ of S. A. Wright near Pelican Lake, last Friday morning.

A six inch tamarack tree, which he was cutting, fell and struck him. His shoulder blade was broken and he also received internal injuries. When the tree hit him it broke in two across his shoulder.

The injured boy was brought to St. Mary's hospital in this city and was attended by Dr. Packard. At present reports he is getting along nicely and no ill results are looked for. Earl is eighteen years of age.

Hurt By Train

A Finlander was brought to the city, Monday afternoon, in an unconscious condition as the result of being hit by a train near Hackley. The man's injuries are of such a grave nature that the physicians have little hope for his recovery.

Later:—The injured man, whose name was John Maki, died early this morning. The funeral will be held this afternoon at the expense of the town of Hackley.

Many at Hospital

As is usually the case at this time of year there are many patients at St. Mary's hospital. The majority of these are woodsmen who are receiving treatment for injuries inflicted while at work in the neighboring camps.

PERRY IS NEVER IDLE

Perry Donnelly, "the village smithy" at Robbins, circulated among his friends in this city yesterday. Perry has a well equipped blacksmith shop at Robbins and does a rushing business all the year round. He is a first class work man as well as a jolly good fellow. No wonder that Perry is never idle.

LOCAL HIGHS WIN FROM OLD RIVALS

Merrill Basket Ball Team Stands No Show With Home Boys Last Friday

The local Highs' basket ball team met and defeated their old time rivals, Merrill, at the Armory, Friday evening by a score of 31 to 20. The game itself, for some unaccountable reason, lacked the excitement which generally prevails at such contests. The score during most of the game was very close.

The team work on the part of our boys was good, rushing the ball over to their basket time and again, but they were unable to land it in the net.

Fenelon, for the home boys, was easily the star, being on the job every minute of the game. Aenis, a new man, substitute for Remo, who could not play on account of illness, showed up very well.

McDermott on free throws was clever, missing but one basket.

The work of Wittman, of Merrill, stood out plainly.

Between halves the audience was entertained with a number of folk dances by the high school girls under the able directorship of Miss Johnson, science teacher.

A large crowd was in attendance.

The Line Up

Merrill	Rhinelanders
Friese	R. F. McDermott
Balker	L. F. Ried
Herrick	C. Swedberg
Wittman	R. G. Aenis
Welch	L. G. Fenelon
Duddo	Sub. Lewis, McDermott

Schenke acted as referee the first half and Ingham of Merrill, the second.

AGREES ON SETTLEMENT

Mrs. Wilson's Case Against Soo Line Removed From Court

Mrs. Kiah Wilson, who started suit against the Soo railway company for $10,000 for the death of her husband, has it understood made a satisfactory settlement with the company out of court. While the exact amount received by Mrs. Wilson from the Soo is not known here rumor has it that it is in the neighborhood of $5000.

Since the death of her husband, Mrs. Wilson has made her home in Minneapolis. The suit instituted by her was to have been heard in that city, but at the last minute the lawyers decided to compromise and the case was removed from court.

CHARITY BALL IS A BIG SUCCESS

Magnificent Social Affair Is Held At The Armory Hall Last Evening

From every stand point, socially and financially, the Charity ball, given under the auspices of the Charity League at the Armory last evening, was a pronounced success. Society in all its splendor was present and the brilliant scene produced in the spacious hall was one which will ever linger fondly in the memories of the patrons. The showing of gowns was elaborate. No social function ever given in Rhinelander has been of such a magnificent nature, caused such unbounded enthusiasm, or been attended by such a cosmopolitan crowd. Everybody, it seemed, boosted for the Charity ball.

The young ladies who comprise the Charity League worked faithfully in arranging for the big affair. The hall decorations were extremely beautiful and in keeping with the character of the occasion. Cozy corners and punch stands were placed in convenient nooks.

Maeder's orchestra of Appleton furnished the music, the program consisting of all the latest selections. Concert was rendered previous to the dance.

The patrons and patronesses of the ball were ladies and gentlemen who represented the various lodges and societies of the city.

Dancing was in order until the early hours and many were the expressions of regret when the orchestra played the final number.

The net income of the ball, which was a tidy sum, will be distributed for charitable purposes in this city. The members of the league feel well repaid for their trouble and are entitled to congratulations on the success of the undertaking.

REITSCH TO HAVE TRIAL IN MARCH

Judge Walker Binds Him Over To Circuit Court With Bonds Fixed at $500

In municipal court, Friday afternoon, August Reitsch, who was arrested two weeks ago on a statutory charge, was bound over for trial at the coming March term of circuit court. His bonds were placed at $500, which amount was promptly furnished.

Reitsch had his hearing ten days ago, but on account of a point in law over which his attorney, S. S. Miller, and district Attorney Fricko were undecided, Judge Walker was unable to make a decision at that time. The interpretation of the point involved, as given by the lawyers, Friday, warranted the court in holding the defendant for trial.

Fry Is Dismissed
J. Fry, charged with unlawfully pointing a weapon at Chas. Boehm at Three Lakes, was dismissed from further prosecution at his examination in Judge Walker's court, Tuesday.

The trouble between the men arose over Boehm driving a team on Fry's land. Fry, it was asserted, ordered Boehm off the property with the aid of a gun. At the hearing it was brought out that the defendant did not aim the weapon at the plaintiff, but merely waved it at him in a threatening manner. The testimony of the witnesses was somewhat confused and not of a damaging nature. The court decided that there was no cause for action.

Mrs. Dominic Grivetti of Miles City, Mont., arrived last evening to be a guest at the Laugeson home. Mrs. Grivetti was formerly Miss Lottie Quinn.

EVENTS OF WEEK IN OTHER TOWNS

Items of More or Less Importance Boiled Down From Neighboring Exchanges

Marinette

From present indications the ice break-up on Green Bay will be the earliest in many years. Fishermen report that the ice has gone out north of Chamber's Island, which is unusual for this time of year. That territory is where the hook and line fishermen of Marinette and Menominee operate, and the industry, which is one of the heaviest of this district, in the winter, may be affected considerably.

Ironwood

Barring the national meets, one of the greatest ski tournaments to ever take place in the United States will be held in this city, Sunday, February 19. The Ironwood Ski Club is making extensive preparations for the event. Among the old hand riders to participate in the tourney is Anders Hansson, former national champion. Hundreds of dollars in cash prizes, silverware and watches will be given to professional and amateur. Ironwood has arranged to entertain a large number of visitors on the big day.

seriously injured in an accident which occurred at the Colby mine. The party of four was coming up the shaft in a skip, when it turned over and the men were thrown out, falling to the bottom, a distance of about 800 feet. The unfortunates were John Martini, Antone Swager and Mike Kutrovitz. The injured man's name is Felix Nozasconi.

Crandon

The indications are that there will be a fight over the liquor license question here next spring. The Republican says: "Although there has always been a safe majority against the issuing of license heretofore, it is claimed that there is a change of sentiment among the class of people who look upon the licensing of saloons, as an opportunity for revenue which will reduce the high rate of taxes they are compelled to pay since the city of Crandon was incorporated."

Merrill

A new organization of business men to be known as the "Chamber of Commerce," which will have for its object the promotion of Merrill's future welfare, has been instituted in this city. 154 men have pledged themselves to join the body at $12 per annum. Articles of incorporation have been drafted and the organization will begin activities at once. The intention is to make Merrill one of the finest and best cities in Wisconsin.

Hayward

Henry Nimitz, a 17-year-old son of a farmer of James Edward, was captured in Duluth two weeks after the day of his crime. In bringing the prisoner to the jail here, Sheriff Clark had a hard struggle in saving him from the vengeance of an angry mob assembled at the depot. The excitement was intense and cries of "hush him" rent the air. It was only with the assistance of the colored local citizens that the sheriff succeeded in getting Nimitz to jail. The jail has made a violent confession of his brutal deed.

Stevens Point

L. C. Mann, an engineer of the war department, who was sent here to investigate in connection with the lowering of the Wisconsin River bridge, was not in favor of such a move. He said that the approaches were not bad and suggested that a little more macadam at the west end would fill in to such an extent that there would be no grade sufficient to cause any team inconvenience in hauling a load up it. It is the general opinion among the taxpayers that the structure should not be lowered.

Ashland

It is said that the Clarkson Coal & Dock Company will expend in the neighborhood of $25,000 this coming spring in extensive enlargement of the dock property in this city. The additions will increase the capacity of the coal dock about one-third. The contract will be let within the next month or six weeks.

Superior

That several new coal companies may be expected to locate here during the next summer is the opinion of A. E. Botsford, superintendent of the Hanna dock. While in Cleveland, Mr. Botsford went over, with the officials of the Hanna line, the plans for the new street and concrete anthracite shed to be erected on the dock here. It will have a capacity of over 50,000 tons and will cost approximately $160,000.

Waupaca

Plans for the high school building in this city have been adopted. Bids for the erection and completion of a solid brick and stone building are asked for.

Washburn

This city's old reliable manufacturing plant, the Kenfield-Lamoreaux box and heading factory, is again running full blast with the usual large crew. For a short time during the middle winter the factory is usually run with a smaller crew than ordinary. This is about the busiest plant in the northwest-most of the time and an enormous amount of material is turned out every day.

Ladysmith

The coming spring will witness great activity in the building line in Ladysmith. Among the structures planned are a new hotel, business blocks and several fine residences. St. Mary's church will build a parochial school and a commodious addition will be made to the Church of Christ.

NOW IT'S THE MOOSE

Steps will be taken toward organizing another new lodge in Rhinelander before many days have passed. This will be the Royal Order of Moose, an organization for which society is expected here shortly. This is a social order which has a large membership throughout the country, including lodges in all of the principal Wisconsin cities.

NO CAMELS HERE

An organizer for the Independent Order of Camels, who attempted to establish a lodge in Rhinelander a brief time ago, soon gave up the work and left town in disgust, saying that he couldn't find even one man here who wanted to be a Camel. It was back to the desert for him.

TRIUMPH OF A NEW IDEA

About the quality of reading matter furnished in the average Sunday newspaper there is no reason to complain—unless it be on the score of too muchness—but the quality often leaves much to be desired. The only shining and unqualified exception to this rule is found in the unique Sunday Magazine of The Chicago Record-Herald. There is nothing else like it in the whole range of American journalism. It is a real magazine that is regularly issued as a part of the Sunday paper. It is filled with first-class fiction, able articles, choice pictures and a wide range of good miscellany, all by popular or really famous authors and artists. When writers such as Conan Doyle, Anthony Hope, Rudyard Kipling, Jack London, Sewall Ford, Cyrus Townsend Brady and Roy Norton are counted among the contributors to a Sunday paper its triumph can no longer be doubted.

The Sunday Magazine of The Record-Herald is far and away the best literary treat offered to newspaper readers in the United States today. The largest monthlies and independent weeklies cannot surpass it in quality or sustained interest. You will always find one of the finest

BREAKS RECORD IN 1910

M. W. A. Has Largest Growth of Any Order in World

The clerks of camps of the Modern Woodmen of America have been advised by A. R. Talbot, the head consul, that the year 1910 was a record breaker in the number of certificates issued. The total 163,238, compared with 155,837 in 1909, and 140,398, in 1908. The growth in membership for the three years is the largest of any fraternal society in the world. The combined number of certificates issued in that period was 453,473. March of last year was the banner month of the three total adoptions being 20,278. The next largest month was last February, with 17,722.

He says that the winter has been first rate for the loggers and work at his camp has progressed nicely. He does not expect the "break-up" to occur before six weeks.

People easily constipated dread the winter. Nothing but hard coarse foods winter. Nothing but hard coarse foods keep the stomach active. Your best meals. Tubbs, a warm welcome always awaits him here.

WHO WANTS THE JOB?

Congressman Morse has been called on to nominate a midshipman to attend the naval academy at Annapolis. He has not been able to find any one willing to take this position. The applicant must be a resident of the Tenth congressional district, between the ages of sixteen and twenty years, and must have a sound body and constitution.

In order to pass the mental examination, it is necessary that he has completed the High school course or nearly so.

Congressman Morse will have to make the appointment before March 4th, or his right to do so will lapse. It is suggested that any one desiring this position, which pays from the very beginning $600 a year, ought to write Congressman Morse at Washington at once.

DOES "GODIVA STUNT"

Finn Walks Across Street Minus His Clothing

A travelling man at the Hotel Fuller related the story of a sensational stunt pulled off by a Finn while he was at Negaunee the other day. As the same tale also appeared in the daily press it is undoubtedly true.

As the result of a bet Andrew Nordland ventured out on the main business street without his clothes. Nordland appeared on the street without a stitch of clothing. Several men in a saloon dared any one to walk across the street and back again minus his clothing, putting up a bet of $1 that it would not be done. Nordland covered the bet and "made good." Drifts of snow several feet high and accumulated, but undaunted he waded through. Returning he pocketed the dollar and coolly walked down the street, to be nabbed by Chief of Police Rough. Hundreds of pedestrians saw Nordland do his "Lady Godiva" stunt.

How does Uncle Ike stand on reciprocity and ship subsidy. Is he with the gang or with the people? Have you noticed?

THIS IS SHAMEFUL

To think that the U. S. Senate has passed even a semblance of a ship subsidy measure is enough to sicken most any one. But to think that it was only made possible by the vote of a Lorimer, and the vote of Vice-President Sherman, a notorious big interest man, to break a tie vote in the Senate, is enough to make one cry out for shame. Of course Lorimer and Sherman are the tools of big interests and here we see the fruitage. All possible pressure will now be brought to bear to whip the House members into line; but if they read the handwriting on the wall, they will give ship subsidy a wide berth.

RECIPROCITY SEEMS CERTAIN

There seems to be a prospect of real reciprocity between the U. S. and Canada. There is probably no real difference in wages or classes of workmen in the U. S. as compared with the same in Canada, so why should there ever have been a tariff wall except for revenue purposes possibly. So far as justice is concerned there might just as well be a tariff wall at the Mississippi river. As to whether the American farmer or the American manufacturer will get the greater benefit from this particular treaty, there may be some question; but even at that there are mutual benefits and compensations coming to the other through advancement to the one.

WHY HIRE OUTSIDE TALENT?

Only one thing regrettable in regard to the Charity ball, last evening, is the fact that an outside orchestra was engaged to furnish music. As the members of the Charity League, which organization had the party in charge, depended wholly on home patrons for support, it is difficult to understand how they could have made the error of neglecting the Rhinelander musicians. It is safe to wager that any orchestra in this city could have been hired at a sum considerably less than that paid the Appleton orchestra. Still this matter of saving was entirely ignored for the sake of securing a company of outside talent with a wider reputation. The name Maeder, we admit, does sound real "swell" but how much of the money paid these musicians is circulated in Rhinelander? Charity, it is said, begins at home, but it appears that some people believe in helping Appleton first.

BUYS BOAT LIVERY

A. J. Klumb, a traveling engineer on the C. M. & St. P. Ry., and E. A. Peddler of Milwaukee, have purchased the Minocqua Boat Livery from D. Jossart & Son. Mr. Jossart has not decided as to his future, but thinks strongly of locating in western Canada.

AFTER THE VIOLATORS

Martin Berg, Deputy Game Warden, Is Kept Busy

Martin Berg, deputy game warden, is hot on the trail of violators these days. Saturday he confiscated a dark house, spears and decoy minnows, which he found on the Mississippi river. Martin asserts that the owners of this outfit are known to him and that arrests will follow before the week end. In a letter written by G. Rickert, retiring state game warden, to Mr. Berg, the latter is highly praised for the efficient work he has accomplished in protecting game in this county. Martin is always prowling about the woods and the law breakers have grown to fear him.

FOOL THEIR FRIENDS

Agnes Leduke and Sam Swartz Are Wed January 31

To use a slang expression Miss Agnes Leduke and Sam Swartz "one over" on their friends when they were quietly married at St. Mary's Mary's parsonage, January 31. Rev. Fr. Duane, assistant pastor of St. Mary's church, performed the ceremony. The young couple kept the secret well and it was not until last Friday that the story of the wedding became publicly known. Even the relatives of the pair had had no knowledge of the affair. Mr. and Mrs. Swartz left last Thursday morning for their future home in Portland, Ore. The groom holds a position there in the union depot. There is no doubt but what if the friends of the newly weds had learned of their union a rousing reception would have been tendered them. The depot boys at Portland, however, will probably not let Sam escape so easily.

TUBERCULOSIS DAY

April 30th has been set aside this year as "Tuberculosis Day" and will be observed in 200,000 churches in the country in a manner similar to that of "Tuberculosis Sunday" in 1910, when over 40,000 sermons were preached on the prevention of consumption. In this first official announcement of the occasion made by the National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis today, the leaders of the movement state that they hope to enlist all of the 33,000,000 church members in the country.

HE MAKES REPLY TO SOCIALISTS

Rev. Grant Clark Makes Himself Clear In an Able Address Sunday Evening

A number of prominent Socialists were attentive listeners at the address given by Rev. Grant Clark at the Congregational church last Sunday evening. In accordance with a previous announcement Mr. Clark took friendly issue with a prominent Socialist of our city in regard to the latter's interpretation of Christ's answer to the rich young ruler who came to Jesus with the question, "What must I do to inherit eternal life?" Christ told him, that if he would be perfect, "Go sell all that thou hast and give to the poor." The interpretation which the Socialist referred to, was to the effect that Christ required his followers to separate themselves from the economically useless rich class that there might be no diverging of economic interests. The pastor of the Congregational church prefaced his remarks by saying that he was in full sympathy with the laboring class; that he knew by actual experience some of the hardships of the laboring men; that he, himself belonged to the proletariat class, and hence could not be accused of being partial in favor of the rich. He called attention to the fact that many of the Socialists were in the habit of appealing to the teachings of Christ to confirm their arguments. He said he was glad to note this, but that he wanted to insist upon intelligent and warranted interpretations and conclusions. Mr. Clark laid down certain rules which he said were essential to the accurate interpretation of Scripture. He said that while many of Christ's sayings and directions to his disciples were very easy of interpretation, being almost axiomatic in nature, others involved the conditions of the place and time, and that a thorough knowledge of the customs of the people of the time of Christ's ministry was absolutely necessary for an intelligent appreciation of Christ's meaning.

The speaker called attention to the fact that Christ's words were spoken to a single individual, and were the only words recorded in the whole New Testament of like import; that we had no right to say that what Christ prescribed for one wealthy man he would prescribe for every wealthy man. He said that this was a specific remedy for a specific condition and it would be absurd to claim that it applied to every case of wealth.

The pastor stated that there was no evidence that Christ required his followers to separate themselves from the rich as a class. He produced much direct evidence to show that Christ associated with the rich at times, and on a very friendly basis. He referred to the conversion of Zachariah, a chief publican, and very rich. In this case Christ made no requirement as to his disposal of his wealth.

It was clearly shown that the rich young ruler, in all probability, belonged to the Pharisees, one of the leading sects of the Jews. It was this class that opposed Jesus, almost from the start; and it was against this class that Christ directed his most scathing denunciations, but not on account of their wealth, for the Sadducees were more exclusively wealthy. The Pharisee party included rich and poor, learned and unlearned, and it had a most powerful grip on the common people. Christ denounced them, not on account of their wealth, but on account of their self-righteousness, their lack of mercy, and justice, and their hypocrisy. Mr. Clark stated that Christ could look beneath both the wealth and poverty and discern the condition of the heart; and where he found the heart of a man wrong he prescribed for him accordingly without reference to his riches or poverty. He called attention to the fact that Christ, on several instances, warned his hearers against the dangers of wealth, and taught them with reference to the proper use of wealth. And he said that such teachings were timely. He said that it was apparent to any observer that wealth possessed a glamour that is almost dazzling in its brilliancy, and that it requires a strong character to possess wealth and make the proper use of it. He emphasized the responsibility of people of wealth, and mentioned the richness of opportunity for accomplishing good. The tone of the address was friendly from beginning to end, and no offense was

ENTERTAINING THEIR FRIENDS

At the E. O. Brown home, Monday evening, the Teachers' Club entertained at six o'clock dinner. Each member of the club invited one guest. The evening was pleasantly spent at hearts.

Something to Think About.

The white man is regulated by society and is heavily taxed to support the city, its schools, churches and other institutions. He is expected to work, and only allow his eyes to work a stated number of hours daily, which is quite right and proper.

Our competitors are subject to no regulations. Old buildings are occupied. Here they sleep, eat, amuse themselves and work under conditions which are extremely unhygienic. They work twice as long as a white man could, perhaps work for a penny or two cheaper, only because their mode of living enables them to do so. Every dollar they save is sent out of your country—to China. You and your city lose.

A plant such as The Oneida Steam Laundry represents an investment of time, talent, experience, and a good many dollars. A visit to these works will show you that here is "the Spirit of the Times." Congenial employment is given a number of skilled assistants, who live and spend their money in Rhinelander.

Can you compare the organization and plant of these modern steam works with the ill-kept Chinese laundries? To appreciate the difference, watch them; then watch us! Steam laundry methods are perfectly sanitary. Our methods cleanse, we do not polish over the dirt. Come in and see for yourselves.

We want you to think this over, then give us a chance to show you how nicely these works launder your linen, at very reasonable charges.

Perfection is not claimed, but it is our aim to get as near it as possible.

Our delivery is subject to your call without extra charge.

FOR INSPECTION
Capt. Murphy Is Here April 14th--Capt. Walker Says New Recruits Are Needed

The members of Co. L, W. N. G. of this city, are preparing for the annual inspection which takes place this year on April 14. Capt. Murphy, of the regular army, succeeds Gen. Chas. King in this section of the state as inspection officer of the militia. Three other inspectors will have charge of the work in different parts of Wisconsin.

Capt. Walker, of Co. L, says that several old members of the company will retire from service in the spring and that he is anxious to secure new recruits to supply the vacancies. Application blanks may be obtained at any time from the Captain. Since the first of the present year three new men have been taken into the ranks. The company has regular drill each Monday evening at the Armory.

Returns From Meeting
Lieut. Leadbetter returned Saturday from Oshkosh where he attended the annual convention of officers of the state militia. He reports a pleasant and profit meeting at which many valuable pointers of aid to the officers were learned. Generals King and Boardman, of the regular army, were present.

MEETS WITH ACCIDENT
Henry Knapp Is Struck By Heavy Block of Ice
Henry Knapp is recovering from injuries received about ten days ago, while hauling ice for the Rhinelander Brewing Company.

Mr. Knapp was coming down the Blackmer hill from Lake Julia, on top of a load of ice, when the heavy cubes began to slide off the sleigh. He jumped, but one of the blocks struck him on the left leg, between the knee and hip, inflicting very painful bruises. For a week he was compelled to remain in the house, being unable to walk. He now gets around with difficulty.

NOW IN LOS ANGELES
Letters received this week from Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Stevens, who are now at Los Angeles, Cal., bear the tidings that they like the sunshine state very much and both feel considerably improved in health. They state that the climate is delightful and extend their sympathy to the "folks back home" who are braving the cold and storms of a northern winter. During their short time in the western country they have met many former residents of this city.

Mr. and Mrs. Stevens intend to visit all the principal points of interest along the Pacific coast and will not return here until early in the summer.

ENTERS TRAINING SCHOOL
Miss E. Vivian Lawrence, of Three Lakes, became a student of the Oneida County Teachers' Training School, Monday.

With the entrance of Miss Lawrence all of the teachers in the Three Lakes district are now attending the school. Mr. Dresden, principal, is glad to note this fact and would like to see other country teachers of the county follow the example of their Three Lakes sisters.

KING IS NOT COMING
Gen. Chas. King, of the regular army, has been retired as inspection officer of the Wisconsin militia and consequently will not come to Rhinelander this spring. His duties will hereafter be covered by four inspection officers who will be in the state in March.

Gen. King's retirement is regretted by the officers and boys of Co. L, among whom he was well liked.

CIVIL SERVICE EXAMINATION.

The commission plans to hold next April competitive examinations for baker, fireman, painter, plumber, steamfitter, and teachers for the state institutions.

Application may be made at any time for the position of applicant.

CARR IS TOO FOXY
He Refuses to Stand for Tricky Bounty Applicants
The bill to prevent wild animal bounty frauds to be introduced in the legislature might just as well be thrown aside as far as County Clerk W. W. Carr is concerned. Time and time again applicants for these bounties have attempted to fool Mr. Carr but he has always been too wise for them.

On one occasion an Indian presented to him a collection of fox pups, pelts which he claimed were those of young wolves. Mr. Carr nearly stood for the game, but becoming suspicious he made a close examination of the hides and detected the fraud. Poor Lo put up a strenuous protest to which the Clerk remained deaf and refused to allow the bounty.

Many Places Named For Washington

By ROBERT DONNELL

It is ever occur to you that the surname of George Washington is permanently attached to more places in the United States than that of any other man? In fact, no name in human history plays so great a part in geographical nomenclature. Were it possible to blot out all historical record of Washington his name would survive to the end of time in the places which bear it.

One state in the Union is named for Washington.

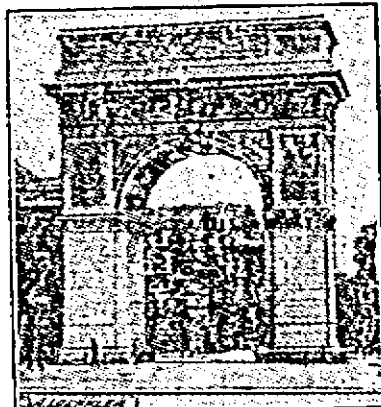

The capital of the United States is named for Washington.

Counties in thirty-one of the forty-six states are named for Washington.

Towns in thirty-three of the forty-six states are named for Washington.

Several states have more than one town or village named Washington, the entire list numbering fifty-eight.

Nearly every city of consequence and many smaller towns have Washington streets or avenues, Washington parks, Washington squares or other localities named for the Father of His Country.

The states having Washington counties are Alabama, Arkansas, Colorado, Florida, Georgia, Idaho, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Kentucky, Louisiana, Maine, Maryland, Minnesota, Mississippi, Missouri, Nebraska, New York, North Carolina, Ohio, Oregon, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, South Dakota, Tennessee, Texas, Utah, Vermont, Virginia and Wisconsin.

The states having cities, towns or villages named for Washington are Arkansas, California, Connecticut, Georgia, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Kentucky, Louisiana, Maine, Maryland, Massachusetts, Michigan, Minnesota, Mississippi, Missouri, Montana, Nebraska, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New York, North Carolina, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, Tennessee, Texas, Utah, Vermont, Virginia, West Virginia and Wisconsin.

In the city of New York is Washington square, a little park of historic and artistic memories, where on the one hundredth anniversary of Washington's accession to the presidency was dedicated the magnificent Washington arch, the gateway to Fifth Avenue.

As new states are created new Washington counties and towns follow. In short, the people of the United States have the Washington habit. And who was it said that republics are ungrateful?

The Fictitious Washington

By WILLIS BROOKS HAWKINS.

(Copyright by American Press Association, Inc., 1911.)

BERIAH JENKS was tall and straight. Though short and badly bent—

By which, if you will kindly wait, I'll tell you what is meant. In mind and character he stood The tallest man in town. And in impartial hardiness Was squarely up and down.

For these and other goodly traits He held a lifelong lease Upon the people's worldly fates As justice of the peace And so administered the laws That everybody knew 'Twas useless, save with righteous cause, For any one to sue.

One day the constable arraigned Josiah Ladd as one Who had defiantly maintained That General Washington Was not the saint that people said! As in his praise they vied, But, being only human bred, Had doubtless erred and lied.

The justice heard the charge and then Delivered his decree. "This court believes all men are men With human faults," said he. "And like enough George Washington Is being overpraised Because of victories he won When Freedom's flag was raised."

The culprit smiled and turned to go. But stopped at a command. "And yet," said Justice Jenks, "we know That, on the other hand, We must not let mere facts assail The high ideals of youth. I therefore send this man to jail For telling too much truth."

ROSS WRITES ON THE BOY SCOUTS

Gives His Opinion of The Movement in Recent Issue Of New York Call

The following article on the Boy Scout movement, written by E. J. Ross and appearing in the New York Call of recent date, is given the New North for publication by S. G. Perinier.

"The worst of enemies," it is said, "is that one who parades in the guise of friendship." The Boy Scout movement may be cited as a most apt illustration of the truth of this saying. On the surface it appears to be a movement for the regeneration of boyhood, fostered by lovers of children, who dedicate their lives to this labor of love, out of the loftiest and purest motives that can animate the heart of man.

At a recent lecture in the so-called Labor temple at Fourteenth St. and Second Avenue, delivered by Ernest Seton Thompson, one of the foremost leaders of the Boy Scout movement, the speaker, in an attempt to show that the Boy Scout movement had powerful backing stated that though ordinary representatives of charity organizations found it difficult to obtain even hearing from the great capitalists and business men, representatives of the Boy Scout movement found it easy not alone to obtain a hearing, but also liberal contributions. One capitalist who owned some 10,000 acres of park land in Tuxedo, N. Y., put the entire ground at his disposal for the use of the Boy Scouts. Another large capitalist who owned some 5,000 acres of forest and woodland in the neighborhood of White Plains, N. Y., ceded the whole for the use of the Boy Scouts! He mentioned numerous other examples of the generosity of the rich patrons of the Boy Scouts.

To put it in his own language, "Though charity representatives and others find it hard to approach men of means, no sooner are they acquainted with the cardinal principles of the Boy Scout movement than they are ready, nay, anxious, to donate to any reasonable amount."

What are these cardinal principles that cause the potentates of industry to loosen their tightened purse-strings and pour a stream of gold into the coffers of this movement, blessing it with the only blessing that their cordial souls are capable of the blessing of clinking coin and of gifts of land, which in its very nature was meant to be free as the air we breathe? Casting aside all the frills that frame the main cardinal principles which it may be said are the sole cause for its existence, we find that to be loyal to one's employer, to stick to him through thick and thin, and against every one who speaks or militates against him, to learn to obey without question and to recognize superiors in all whose social position has been placed by circumstance above his own, are the most laudable qualities a Boy Scout possesses, and it is to this end that the movement has been organized.

It seeks to create a docile and obedient nucleus in the ranks of the working class, which can in time of need be used to combat the interests of its own class. To accomplish this end it offers the most alluring bait to working class boys. It offers the opportunity of camping out in the woods, and sitting in the evenings around blazing log fires, in the picturesque attitude of the dime novel backwoodsman, and also of learning woodcraft, and all manner of sports such as swimming, rowing, foot ball, target practice and drills.

But the most alluring bait they offer is the chance of physical development and the "door life" which every boy longs for, and which is denied to the children of the poor by the very ones who seem to befriend them by offering them the glorious opportunity to romp and play in the free air of the forest and meadow land which has been appropriated by these very donors or their ancestors who had no more right to it. It teaches the boys to look upon their exploiters as benefactors.

PNEUMONIA FOLLOWS A COLD

But never follows the use of Foley's Honey and Tar, which checks the cough and expels the cold. M. Stockwell, Hannibal, Mo., says, "It beats all the remedies I ever used. I contracted a bad cold and cough and was threatened with pneumonia. One bottle of Foley's Honey and Tar completely cured me." No opiates, just a reliable household medicine.

TO ABOLISH WARDENS

Bill Would Wipe Out Fish and Game
Department

The democratic members of the legislature have taken a pronounced stand in favor of the abolition of state fish and game department.

A bill was introduced in both houses providing for the obligation upon the counties of the state to the work now carried on by that department.

It is the idea that there is no reason why the fish and game laws should be enforced in any manner different from other penal statutes. The democrats declare that there is no reason why the work cannot be as well done by the counties as by the state and for this reason are representing the measure which they undoubtedly intend to make a political issue.

The bill provides for the enforcement of the game laws by county officers and makes it obligatory on counties to have sufficient police officers, either constables or deputy sheriffs, to see that the game laws are enforced. The fees derived from the sale of hunting licenses are to go to the counties instead of the state because of the extra burden entailed on the counties in the police work necessary for the enforcement of the game laws.

A Story For Washington's Birthday

"AND so you want to marry my niece?" said Jeremiah Parrish irritably.

"Yes, sir," said Peter Elmore, looking into the old man's black eyes with a clear, direct glance. "And you are a lawyer? Remember, please, that my niece has become engaged to you while on a visit to the city and, although she has known you for several years, you are a comparative stranger to me. Now, you are a lawyer! I hope you are a good one."

The young man winced under the cool arrogance in Mr. Parrish's harsh voice, but he merely smiled as he answered, "I hope to prove to you some day that I am, sir."

"Oh, you do, eh? Perhaps I will give you an opportunity now. You may be able to solve the mystery of our guest chamber!"

"Oh, Uncle Jerry, that is not fair!" cried Mildred reproachfully from her seat near the fire. "Peter is a lawyer—not a detective! No one ever solved it, and remember how many people have tried in the last hundred years."

Mildred rose and leaned against the high back of her lover's chair. Elmore had not spoken. His keen blue eyes were fixed on the forbidding countenance of Jeremiah Parrish, and he noted a cunning little smile lurking about the thin lips.

"Perhaps Mr. Parrish will give me an opportunity of proving myself," he said lightly. "Just now I do not recollect ever having heard of the Washington room in your house."

"Oh, George Washington slept there once—the winter the army suffered at Valley Forge. My great-grandmother was sewing carpet rags with her black servant when the two women heard the sound of horses' hoofs on the frozen ground. Always fearful of the coming of the British, my ancestress hastily gathered her store of silver teaspoons and several hundred pound notes and told black Mirandy to secrete them, while she answered the thundering knock which reverberated through the house."

"To her relief, it was General Washington and several of his aids, who requested shelter for the night. In the temporary absence of her husband she bade them welcome, and, delighted at the honor, she hastened to set her best before them."

"She found black Mirandy cowering foolishly in a corner of the best room and half dead from fright. The woman could not recollect what she had done with the spoons or with the banknotes, and to this day their disappearance is a mystery."

"The great general slept in the best room that night, and ever since then the room, with its contents, has been regarded as a state apartment. Washington was much interested in the disappearance of the treasures, and it is said that on the night of the 23d of February he is often seen about the apartment searching hither and thither for the heirlooms which Mirandy hid away."

"Perhaps you will permit me to sleep in that room tonight," suggested Elmore earnestly.

"Certainly," responded his host grimly. "I will go at once and give instructions to have the bed aired and thoroughly warmed."

When he had departed Mildred resumed her low seat near the fire, and Elmore dropped on an ottoman beside her. The girl's sweet face was very grave as she slipped her hand in her lover's broad palm.

"I wish Uncle Jerry had not told you about the room," she said earnestly. "So many have tried to solve the mystery, and, while none of them will tell their actual experience, there is always an esoteric and a transcendence with Uncle Jerry's old-fashioned ways."

"I don't know why I don't know—and if he can humiliate me he is delighted. Except on that one subject he is the dearest of old men. Sometimes I

THE LIGHT FELL ON WASH GEORGE'S FEET FIRST. Washington had never slept in the house."

Elmore laughed heartily, and he was revising her drooping spirits when the door opened and Jeremiah Parrish appeared holding a lighted candle in a silver candlestick. The light fell on his stern profile for one instant, and to that brief interval Elmore's keen eyes sharpened into points of flame.

"In a hurry to go to bed?" he asked quickly.

"Eager to solve the mystery and claim the reward," laughed Elmore.

"Ah, yes! I have overlooked that. There must be a reward. If you find the treasure it is yours for a wedding gift. If you are unsuccessful you will wait till Mildred is twenty-five, eh? Four years is not long when one is young!"

"We will take the spoons, thank you, Mr. Parrish," returned Elmore coolly. "And now if you will show me to my room I will get down to business."

He lingered a moment behind the elder man to make his farewells to his sweetheart, and then he followed the flickering candle down a dark passage that led to the old part of the rambling house, which dated back to early colonial days.

Mr. Parrish threw open a low door, and they entered a large, low coiled room with yellow painted floor, gay with rag rugs and with a roaring fire in the wide chimney. A huge four-post bed with blue hangings stood in one corner, while other bulky pieces of ancient furniture crowded the spaces. Over the mantelpiece was a large life sized copy of the Stuart portrait of Washington.

Elmore threw a quick glance around the room, and it paused where a large wicker hamper stood at the foot of the bed.

"The original balls of carpet rags?" he asked, with a smile.

Parrish nodded. "The women of the household have always preserved them from moths. But I am a bachelor, and Mildred seems to think it foolish to keep those things, so they are all gone." There was a tinge of melancholy in the old man's tone, which quickly changed to its usual sarcastic quality.

"That door on the left, Elmore, opens into a small modern bedroom. See? If you find your slumbers disturbed in here I shall not blame you if you seek more congenial quarters. My other guests have always done so."

Elmore laughed as he unfasted his collar. "This is the 23d of February, and it is also my birthday. Perhaps the fates will be kind to me, and we shall need teaspoons, Mr. Parrish."

"Good luck to you," chuckled the older man as he closed the door behind him.

For a long time Elmore lay silently, thinking of many things that had nothing to do with his present situation, but on the instant that the clock chimed twelve resonant strokes he slipped down to the foot of his bed and crouched in the shadow of the bed hangings.

The moonlight shone full on the portrait of Washington. Elmore found himself studying the noble figure with its outstretched hand and with almost painful intensity.

A shadow blurred the corner by the mantel, and out of its gloom a pale figure came slowly across the room, passing close to the bed, tall and of manly form, in ancient dress of pale gray tint, with powdered hair tied back and thoughtful face just touched by the moonlight.

Elmore braced himself and reached out a strong hand. There was a muffled ejaculation, a brief struggle and the shade of a country's parent was firmly tied by his convulsions to the bedpost. A towel bound his protesting hands, and his feet were similarly confined. The strong light of several candles revealed the perturbed countenance of Jeremiah Parrish. His deathly resemblance to George Washington had disappeared.

Elmore was pawing around in the hamper of rag balls. "If I had had black Mirandy," he panted as he tied the balls at the feet of the patriot, "I would have hidden the spoons in the first thing at hand, which would have been the rags. Ah, this is a heavy one and hastily wound!"

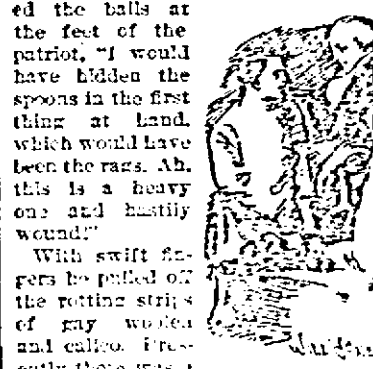

With swift fingers he pulled off the rotting strips of rag woolen and called. Presently there was a gleam and a spoon tinkled on the floor, and then another and another until a dozen had appeared, and at the very end was a crumpled bunch of paper which melted into crisp Bank of England notes.

"Permit me, Mr. Parrish," said Elmore as he forestalled the prisoner, "to restore to you your patrimony?"

"I own you and your profession an apology, Mr. Elmore—Peter, I will say," said Jeremiah Parrish whimsically. "I am somewhat ashamed of my ancestors that the mystery has not been unraveled before. As for my unpopularity, that is done in the joy of testing the bravery of men."

"Mildred and I will be married at Easter," smiled Peter.

"When you please," assented Jeremiah blithely. "The wedding gift is waiting—has been waiting for a century and a quarter."
